

YESSLE THE SEARCH ENGINE

Source code

February 09, 2022

Zip-file Overview

In the zip-file you will find several files that can be freely used as a start for building your own search engine. Here follows an explanation of the files:

index.php

This is the file that contains the search bar. If you type something in the search bar and click search it will look in database.txt

database.txt

This is a short database containing only a few search items. You can manually add webpages and descriptions or use get_page.php

get_page.php

This webpage looks like the main page, but you can add webpages to the database automatically by copy-pasting a web address of a webpage you like to add.

autosuggest_list.txt

Here is a list of autosuggestions. In this source code, this file is not updated when you add a page. To see how that works watch the Youtube-video.

Link to your own search engine

Feel free to adapt the code and build your own search engine!

If you have something ready, I would like you to share a link to your engine. Send a message to info@yessle.com and I will add your page to the description below the Youtube video. Thanks, have fun! Team Yessle
